

Database Administrator in the Executive Support Team

What I do in my job?

I am Database Administrator in the Executive Support Team who manage the National Vendor Database and the Critical Incident Management Contacts list. My primary role involves the management and validation of all information contained in these databases. I am located in the new Southgate offices and also have a role as liaison between the HSE Facilities team, the eHealth staff and some external stakeholders in order to ensure the day to day management of the offices

Motivation:

I always want work with people who are dedicated, motivated and have a positive attitude. So I really enjoy the work I do with my team, where we can exchange ideas and solving problems together, this is really motivating for me. Collaborating with other team members can lead to more effective and better results. I can acquire new technical skills and learn about the latest technologies and tools related to ICT.

Advice to women thinking of a career in health service:

If you have a genuine interest in HSE (eHealth) follow your passion and pursue a career in the health service. Remember, as a woman in the health service, you have the power to make a significant difference, if you are resilient, and are passionate about your work you will thrive in this rewarding field.
